

Eight daughters of Lust

The preeminent role of the intellect

Dominic Jones

Netherhall House, London

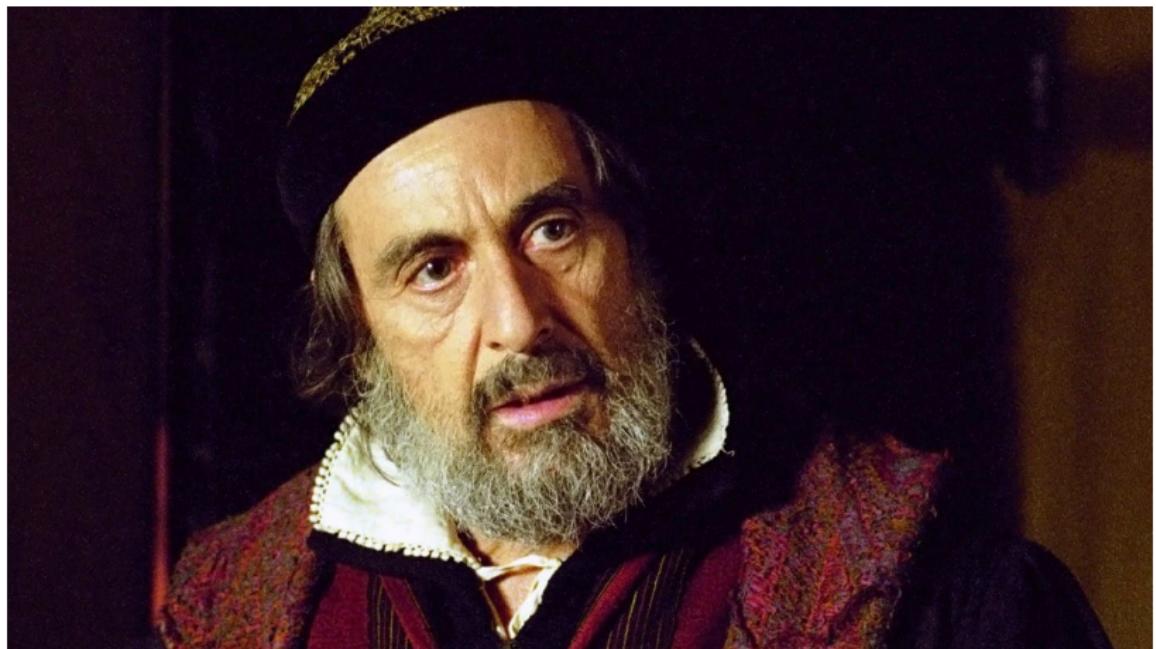

March 2019

“The Moral Obligation To Be Intelligent”, John
Erskine

"Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever"

“Revenge. The villainy you teach me I will execute”

“The final battle will be about marriage and the family”, Sr. Lucia of Fatima

Rearing of children, mutual aid, remedy of concupiscence

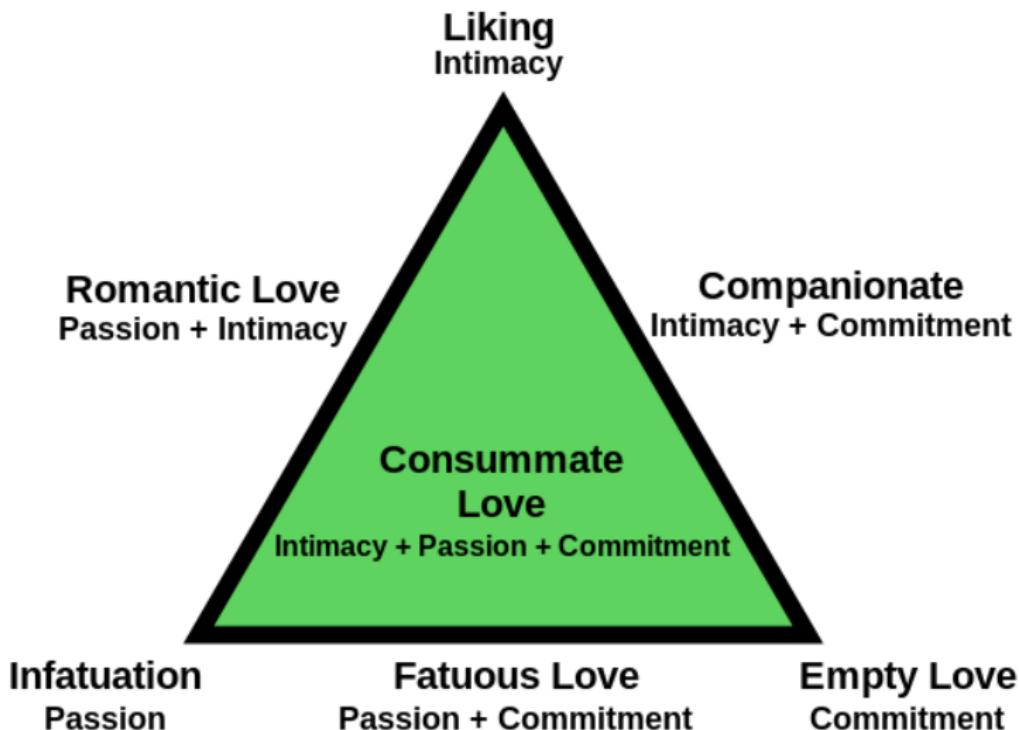

“What is needed is the cold shower of reason”, E.
Feser

"I made a mistake. I fell in love. That wasn't part of the plan"

“Scottie’s is an Erotic love of the most rarefied sort”

'So long as she's pretty' - Venus

'No other can satisfy' - Eros

Our highly unusual place in the order of things

Angels - Neither sexed nor romantic

Animals - Sexed but not romantic

Sob-Sob 'It bothers me though. . . '

“Be fruitful and multiply”, Gn 1:28

Nature tells of 'what it's for'

“Quid est veritas?”

Blindness of mind, rashness, thoughtlessness, inconstancy

Self love, hatred of God, love of this world, dispair of the next

Eight daughters of Lust

The preeminent role of the intellect

Dominic Jones

Netherhall House, London

March 2019